Heckler & Koch significantly increased its order intake in the first half of 2025. At EUR 282.5 million, it is 42.8% higher than the previous year's figure of EUR 197.8 million. The high order intake forms the basis for further revenue growth: revenue increased to EUR 179.5 million (previous year: EUR 171.4 million; +4.7%). Earnings strength remained stable despite high advance payments. EBITDA was EUR 29.2 million, almost the same as the previous year (EUR 29.5 million; -1.1%). Net profit after tax (EAT) amounted to EUR 11.8 million (previous year: EUR 12.9 million; -8.2%).

"The current half-year figures confirm our strong market position. The significantly increased order intake shows that operational forces in Germany, Europe and within the transatlantic alliance trust our products. With the series launch of the new standard assault rifle G95A1 for the Bundeswehr, one of the most important projects in our company's history has begun. This is a milestone – for the soldiers as well as for Heckler & Koch," explains CEO Dr.-Ing. Jens Bodo Koch.

Chief Financial Officer Andreas Schnautz adds: "The first half of the year underscores the economic stability of our company. Despite high advance payments, we were able to secure solid earnings strength. This creates the financial foundation to successfully implement major contracts such as the G95 and at the same time invest in technology and our location in the long term."
