Press Release

10. April 2015

Statement No. 4 from Heckler & Koch regarding the G36 assault rifle

For over 50 years, Heckler & Koch has been a partner to the German Bundeswehr and every day our products service many soldiers worldwide. We believe that the current debate on the assault rifle G36 requires a solution-focused discourse which concentrates on how the defensibility of deployed army units can be increased overall. After the careful review of our press releases over the past weeks we have reached the conclusion that our press statements from April 10, April 18 and April 21, 2015, have in part not supported our aimed for solution-focused approach.

This is why, we have decided to take these press releases off our website. Our main interest is to support our soldiers in full as well as the engaged defense authorities.
